JOSH LITTLELIGHT POST SECONDARY GRADUATE

Hello all, my name is Josh Littlelight, and I am an Indigenous Graphic Designer and Illustrator from the Tsuut'ina Nation in southern Alberta. I have been a professional graphic designer for 15 years, and most recently graduated with honours from the Vancouver College of Art and Design for Graphic Design in 2022. Throughout my career, I have always taken great pride in my work, striving to go the extra mile and help others.

In my personal life, I have three children that are my whole world. They provide me with the inspiration and outlook to do my best both personally and professionally.

Since graduating from post secondary education, I cannot recommend enough how important it is to seek out higher learning and education. The mental strength and ability to do what you love will change your life forever. I am proud to say that due to my education, I came out of post secondary school with the skills and industry education to do great things. Work hard and enjoy your career and you can experience the same.
